

The Claretian Echo

VOLUME 2: ISSUE 52

JUNE 12TH 2013

The Echo: Trust us your secrets are safe here

Mossie trappedagain

Ouch!

Oz-based former man-nanny Mike Shea has demonstrated the bond he still shares with ex-boss John McDermott.

Shea claims to have felt the full force of Mac's pain when news broke last week of Gary Wynne's infidelity.

Shea tweeted the picture below and stated: "News has bit me hard down under! #Macluv"

Stay-away star Eamonn Collieran has once again been spotted at a major international sporting event without club permission, this despite insisting that he is fully committed to the St Clarets cause.

Last year, The Echo exposed Mossie's unauthorised involvement with the Republic of Ireland team at the Euro 2012 in the middle of the GAA season.

This news was not accepted well by the

Mossie caught red handed in Hong Kong

Mossie Trapped

Senior Claretian officials were this week said to be furious as news broke of the double life of one of the club's most valued members.

Clayton / Roscommon man Eamonn Collieran, affectionately known as Mossie to all, was this week pictured assisting Giovanni Capattoni with the preparation of the Irish soccer team at the Euro 2012 competition.

Photographs showing the current Claretian Clubman of the Year ending out training bibs during a re-tournament session last week have caused outrage within the St Clarets camp.

One member, who did not wish

The main man Mossie: Collieran in the middle of the Irish players.

to be named, merely said: "I'm stunned that Mossie has done this. It goes against everything we thought he stood for."

Meanwhile, another senior figure within the club has questioned the recent decision of the St Clarets senior team to change training to Wednesday evening, and now feels that it is a sure on behalf of Mossie to facilitate his increased involvement with the Irish soccer team.

the years and bought into his ideas, but this is a real shock."

Mossie himself was unavailable for comment, as were many of his St Clarets team mates, most of whom seem to have followed Collieran's lead and headed off to the old Eastern Bloc for the duration of Ireland's involvement in the Euros.

It is unclear what reception Mossie will receive upon his return to St Clarets, but it is felt that the club will be pleased to club's hierarchy, although clear-the-air talks seemed to have resolved this issue. Indeed, Mossie gave assurances that he would never put country before club again.

The Mayo man has been a notable absentee from the club's team in recent weeks and questions have been asked, but Mossie has avoided them by hiding in his van every night.

It now appears that this was all part of a plan to escape the Clarets again, as he was spotted in Hong Kong last week, watching the Lions take on the BaaBaas.

Last year's dramatic exposé of Mossie in Poland

Nuna Nuna Nuna Bat Pants

Following on from Gary Wynne's recent appearance in Batman underpants, The Echo can reveal that this is merely the latest development in a long history of obsessions with cartoon characters.

Echo researchers have uncovered a catalogue of pictures of Gary, including him in this Buzz Lightyear outfit, as well as one as Fred Flinstone, not to mention Wynnerbaby!!!!

Kavan's a Mummy's Boy

It looks like recent recruit Kavan Fitzpatrick (below) will be out of action for a while after suffering a slipped finger while texting, which then resulted in a nasty wrist injury.

Following a recent texting faux pas, club medics have placed Kavan on compulsory wrist rest.

A misplaced text from Kavan landed in the wrong inbox and read: "Saw X's Mum this morning, I take it back, she's hot!"

Sadly, we can't reveal who X is. But Kavan, we do know!!!!

