

The Claretian Echo

You ain't been anythinged until you've been Echoed

VOLUME 3: ISSUE 80

JUNE 4TH 2014

"Every truth bends and reshapes itself or is reshaped by other forces"

Colin caught pigging-out

Healing Silky

Claretians were shocked to find out that injured defender Matthew Healy (below) has turned to the supernatural in an attempt to be fit for the Championship.

Healy has been suffering from a mysterious foot injury, and has enlisted the services of Spiderman as he tries to beat the fitness deadline set by Steve Sherry.

Matt is showing signs of improvement and has assured fans that he will be honest with Sherry and won't be spinning any yarns saying: "There'll be no web of lies about my fitness."

Furious Claretians, angered by the lack of any photographic coverage of the senior team this year, have lashed out at club photographer Colin Keane after he revealed on Facebook that he has been spending his weekends enjoying marathon sessions of the kid's show Peppa Pig, rather than fulfilling his club duties.

The global outrage at this revelation has left staff at The Echo inundated with calls from around the world.

One former player, Adrian Adair, now based in Australia said: "Struth mate, it's a bloody outrage. I'm ripping. I'm out here fighting off mozzies and kangaroos and that lazy bleeder's in watching a pig on TV all day."

Meanwhile, Keane's wife Catherine has shone a more disturbing light on matters as she explained how carpenter Colin is behaving: "He hasn't driven a nail in weeks. All I get out of him these days is 'Guess what Peppia did today'."

"We really need help because sooner or later someone is going to have to start to bring home a bit of bacon to this house. But if I mention it, Colin flies off the handle and tells me to be quiet, just in case Peppia hears me.

"He's a pork chop short of a BBQ at the moment if you ask me" she concluded.

Liquid lunches dash Darren's hopes

Claretian wonder-chef Darren Mallon is reported to be devastated after failing to qualify for TV's Master Chef.

The Tullysaran-taster had wooed judges with dishes including Buckfast Beef Stew, Tullysaran Tequila Turkey and his signature family dish Orchard County Coq au Poitín. However, judges felt that his cooking was a little too flammable to be risked on TV and judge Gregg Wallace told The Echo: "His food was lovely, I mean I scoffed buckets of the stuff. But we never knew if we were meant to eat it or drink it. And the place hummed like a distillery whenever Darren was about. The boy really knows his booze, it's just a pity it's a food show."

Mallon taking safety precautions before starting to cook